U·H
Universität Hamburg
DER FORSCHUNG | DER LEHRE | DER BILDUNG

TAMING THE MACHINES

NOBODY UNDERSTANDS: WHY WE NEED INTERSECTIONAL APPROACHES TO PROTECT BLACK WOMEN ONLINE

MUTALE NKONDE (AI FOR THE PEOPLE & BERKMAN KLEIN CENTER, HARVARD UNIVERSITY, USA)

PUBLIC LECTURE SERIES

About the lecture

My talk helps the audience understand how racial bias enters technical systems through the use of proxies during the design process, then looks at online speech within Black communities. The paper we published with the Harvard Kennedy review, the fall out, the response of the journal and how racism is keeping non white people out of the field in the United States.

Wednesday, 5.01.2022, 18:15–19:45 (CET)

ETHIK IN DER INFORMATIONSTECHNOLOGIE

– delivered in digital form –

Details to access the lecture will be made public at http://uhh.de/inf-eit on a timely basis.

KONTAKT
Prof. Dr. Judith Simon

www.uhh.de/inf-eit